Mt. Marathon Story

According to folklore, the tradition of the Mt. Marathon Race began when two sourdoughs had an argument about whether it was possible to climb and descend the mountain in less than one hour. "Impossible," one said. To settle the argument and the resulting wager, they decided to hold a race with the loser furnishing drinks for the crowd of spectators. At the same time, enterprising merchants donated items for the winner and proposed the race take place on a holiday – why not the 4th of July? The optimistic sourdough lost his bet - the winning racer took one hour and two minutes. Official records disclose that the Mt. Marathon Race actually began as an organized run in 1915 with five contestants. It has since attracted worldwide attention and become an integral part of the Independence Day celebration in Seward.
